

Contents

Introduction	7
In brief: focus, aim and scope	7
At some length: memoir, women life writers, national contexts	10
Chapter One
Out of many...: generic hybridity in memoir	19
1.1. Memoir and autobiography	21
1.2. Other generic blendings	41
1.3. Memoir and academic writing	50
1.4. Memoir and travelogue	58
1.5. Memoir and cookbook	65
1.6. Memoir as a bricolage of graphic novel and comic strip	71
Chapter Two
The beholding eye: visual aspects of memoir	81
2.1. Photography in life-writing	81
2.2. Photography as illustration: Apolonja Maria Kojder's Marynia, Don't Cry. A Mother's Legacy & Barbara Głogowska's Three Generations	85
2.3. Photography, typography and violations of textual space: Janice Williamson's Crybaby!	89
2.4. Photography and ekphrasis	100
2.5. Maps, graphs, genealogical trees as visual devices legitimising the "truthfulness" of the memoir: Mary A. Drzewiecki's Born and Raised Under a Straw Roof	102
2.6. Reconstructing genealogies, visualising (up)rootedness: the tribal and the private in Deborah A. Miranda's Bad Indians. A Tribal Memoir	107
2.7. The remains of the past: memoir as a space of (re)mediation between images and stories in What They Saved. Pieces of a Jewish Past by Nancy K. Miller	116

Chapter Three

Hauntings: fashioning the (female) self at the intersection of the private, the public, the national and the global	137
3.1. Mapping diasporic and national identity and belonging in Dionne Brand's A Map to the Door of No Return. Notes to Belonging	139
3.2. Hidden in plain sight: Sharon Butala's triple discovery of Nature, the self and the (Native) other	147
3.3. Spectral shadowing: history and politics in three Hungarian-Canadian memoirs	155
3.4. Fragments and ghosts, fear and release in Meena Alexander's Fault Lines and Joy Harjo's Crazy Brave	173
Coda	203
Works Cited	205
Ja i świat: wybrane aspekty estetyki i ideologii współczesnego pamiętnika literackiego pisarek północnoamerykańskich (Streszczenie)	217