

TABLE OF CONTENTS

List of abbreviations	7
Chapter 1
Preliminary considerations	11
1.1. The choice and rationale of the research subject	11
1.2. Purpose of the research and fundamental assumptions	19
1.3. Justification of the structure of the work and the research method	22
Chapter 2
Novel foods and the application of innovations in food production in European Union policy and law	25
2.1. Impact of the development of biotechnology on legislation	25
2.2. The development of EU regulations	27
Chapter 3
Novel food as a foodstuff in European Union law	35
3.1. The concept of food in European Union law	35
3.2. The concept of novel food under Regulation No. 2015/2283	37
3.3. Traditional food from a third country as a novel food in the light of Regulation No. 2015/2283	60
3.4. Novel food as an agricultural product?	62
Chapter 4
Legal guarantees for the safety and quality of novel foods	67
4.1. Requirements for placing novel foods on the European Union market	67
4.2. Ensuring the safety of novel foods	71
4.2.1. The system of preventive control	71
4.2.2. Application of the precautionary principle	85
4.3. Monitoring novel foods in the EU	86
4.4. Labelling of novel foods as an instrument to protect consumers' economic interests	88
4.5. Specific environmental requirements and the protection of human health and life from hazards posed by novel foods	92

Chapter 5
Procedure for placing novel foods on the European Union market	97
5.1. Determination of the status of novel food	97
5.2. The authorisation procedure for placing novel foods on the European Union market	103
5.3. The authorisation procedure for placing traditional food from a third country on the European Union market	116
5.4. Protection of scientific data and evidence of the safety of novel foods	125
5.5. Ensuring the safety of novel foods and the proper functioning of the internal market and free movement of goods	131
Chapter 6
Responsibility of the operator placing novel foods on the European Union market	137
6.1. The functions of responsibility in novel food regulations	137
6.2. Criminal and administrative liability	139
6.3. Civil liability	143
Chapter 7
Concluding remarks	157
7.1. Summary and assessment evaluation	157
7.2. De lege ferenda postulates	167
Summary	171
References	176